The Business Model Canvas

Key Partners	Key Activities	Value Proposition	Customer Relationships	Customer Segments
We are acquiring the basic needs for designing our CRUB from the working files we downloaded from IMDB DB.	Our distribution channel is GitHub, where we can have a relationship with the users who download our program.	We are offering a free database to our users.	We wish to have a relationship of cooperation with our users. They give us feedback which we can use to improve our program.	We are looking to make a program for our customers and users that are currently Administrators. The program will be a place where they can CRUB.
	Key Resources The files we have received from IMDB to design our program from.		Channels Through GitHub where they can download the program and report any problems to us.

Cost Structure	Revenue Streams
Our software is open source and open to a community of developers that can freely help and work on the program in their own free time.	So far, the service is free, as this is an open source project.